Prince Contracting — a FlatironDragados company — in a joint venture with OHLA USA, along with designer WSP, is collaborating with the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) on the planning and design phase of a transformative infrastructure project in Broward County, Florida. FlatironDragados is part of the ACS Group, one of the world's leading infrastructure companies.

The project, with an estimated value of $933 million, will widen I-95 and improve connectivity at the SW 10th Street and Hillsboro Boulevard interchanges, enhancing both safety and accessibility for drivers and local communities.

“The Phased Design-Build method fosters collaboration between the contractors, client and designer which drives greater innovation,” said Jack Calandros, President of Prince. “Further, this alignment will provide greater cost and schedule certainty through effective risk management. Our team is committed to engaging local subcontractors and suppliers to accelerate efficient project delivery.”

The nearly four-mile-long project will introduce reconfigured interchanges, new flyover ramps, and enhanced entrance and exit ramps. These upgrades will enhance traffic flow, safety and emergency evacuation routes.

Consistently expanding experience and backlog, Prince has successfully delivered numerous infrastructure projects in Florida and Georgia.

- Nearly 17 miles of the I-95 corridor in District 4 since 2015, most recently completing the award-winning Segment 3B-2 Diverging Diamond Design-Build at Glades Rd. in Broward County (FDOT D4 – 2019-2024 – $148M).
- I-75 & Fruitville Rd. Interchange Design-Build awarded in 2024 (FDOT D1 – $177M).
